FEARED RICE'S FATE

Mrs. Todd Compared Herself to Victim of Lawyer Patrick.

BODY WILL BE DISINTERRED

Surgeons Will Determine Whether Mrs. Margaretta Todd, Was Victim of Foul Play—Recluse May Have Met Death She Dreaded.

New York, Nov. 3.—Margaretta Todd, whose body surgeons will take today from the receiving vault of Woodlawn cemetery in an effort to determine whether foul play had a part in her strange death, dreaded the fate that overtook William M. Rice, a wealthy and aged recluse for whose murder by means of chloroform Albert T. Patrick, his counsellor and confidant, has been sentenced to the electric chair, according to the Herald.

"I often compare myself in my present circumstances with old Mr. Rice in the Patrick case."

That was the remark that Mrs. Todd made only a short time before her body was found beside the Reading Railroad tracks in Philadelphia. She had been telling her troubles to her friend, Mrs. G. W. Moe, of Brick Church, N. J., and had described in detail efforts that, she said, had been made to persuade her to sign papers surrendering the direction of her estate, amounting to a sum variously estimated at from $250,000 to $500,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Moe became acquainted with Mrs. Todd last summer at a hotel in Atlantic City. Mrs. Todd was to have gone from Atlantic City to her nephews, in Hammerton, N. J., but the Moes persuaded her to accompany them to Pierre, Mich., where they spent two weeks.

On their return Mrs. Todd accepted an invitation to spend a fortnight in her friends' home, in Brick Church. She left there on Wednesday night, October, 18 to return to the city, promising to come back in the near future.

"The first we knew that anything was wrong," said Mrs. Moe, "was on Friday afternoon, the day Mrs. Todd died. Mr. Amory came to our house apparently in great excitement and asked if Mrs. Todd were here. Amory said he thought she might have come to Brick Church.

"As Mrs. Todd had asked my husband to witness her will which was to have been made last Monday I thought it natural that she might want to come out to discuss it.

"When last here, Mrs. Todd told me all about her business troubles. 'As long as I live,' she said to me, 'I shall never let a man have the power to act for me in business, and when I die no man shall get a penny of my money. It is going to my daughters. Even if I should marry I would not leave my husband anything. I shall transact my own business until I die.'

"In her two wills there were to be no legacies and her daughter was to have been executrix."

SUES TO RECOVER RENT FOR BURNED STORE BUILDING.

Building Was Destroyed by Fire, and Now Owner Alleges That Keys Were Not Returned to Him.

Sprague, Wash., Nov. 3.—One of the most unique trials in the judicial annals of Sprague occupied the attention of a jury in Justice Kenney's court yesterday.

Ben Ettleson brought suit against J. M. Adams, proprietor of the Sprague Mercantile company, for rent on the ruins of the building formerly occupied as a store by Mr. Adams, which was burned early in September. The building was owned by Ettleson and he claimed rent for the remains of the building from the time of the fire until the present because Mr. Adams had not formally surrendered to him the keys of the demolished doors. There is nothing left of the building but the floor and a small portion of the walls.

The jury disagreed and a new trial will be necessary.

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 3.—Minnie Tannen of this city, the young woman whose name was found on an envelope in the pocket of Louis Crawford, one of the men arrested in New York in connection with the Boston dress suit tragedy, is related to Mrs. Dr. Jane Bishop, formerly proprietor of a medical office on Tremont Street, Boston. This office, which, until recently, has been conducted under Dr. Bishop's name, is the place where Miss Geary is supposed to have gone for treatment. Miss Tannen has not been in Waltham recently. Crawford's wife is a daughter of Mrs. Bishop.

BOYS MEET SUCCESS.

The young people of Astoria High School are jubilant over the unqualified success of their Hippodrome social at the A. O. U. W. hall last night. The attendance was very large and pleased throughout with entertainment provided for them, and especially with the Tableaux songs, a feature of the evening. The net results of the affair are very flattering, approximately $400.00. This brings the student body on the happy side of its debt line, and gives it a chance to take up other projects of pride and interest to them. Among the future engagements the young people will take up, is that of entering the Debating League with Portland, Salem and Eugene and contending for league honors and its championship during the coming spring months. Success to them. The student body desires to thank everyone who contributed in any way to the success of last night's social.

TO PREPARE THE WAY.

U. S. Senator C. W. Fulton Meets and Confers With Committee.

United States Senator C. W. Fulton was a homing passenger on the express from Portland, last night. He went there on Thursday night upon special invitation, to meet yesterday afternoon with the transportation committee of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, upon matters connected with the proposed work that body will perform in urging and securing appropriations from Congress at the coming session.

The conference was not productive of any definite results, in fact all that was done was of a formulative nature, devising the style and tenor of the resolutions needed and the line of action to be pursued by the Chamber of Commerce in prosecuting its big task. However, what was done was indicative of the real high purposes in view and of earnest and business-like adherence to the program of relief.

FINE EQUIPMENT.

J. A. Montgomery who has the contract for the plumbing of the new St. Mary's Hospital, is busy just now setting up the four-inch galvanized iron pipe and its connection for the combined hydraulic service that is to manipulate the elevators of the building and furnish water under line pressure for fire purposes.

MORAN WINS FIGHT.

New York, Nov. 3.—A Cable dispatch to a morning paper from Liverpool, says: Moran defeated Fellows, of Chicago, in the third round of a twenty round match here last night.

HIPPODROME SOCIAL.

The student body of the Astoria High school will give a grand entertainment, dance and hippodrome social, on Friday evening next, November 3, 1905, at the A. O. U. W. hall, (the old Presbyterian church), and those in charge aver that it will be decidedly interesting. The young people need some funds and hope to realize the required amount in this pleasant fashion, at 15 cents admission.

Son Lost Mother.

"For the past five years however, on the slightest sign of a cough of cold I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. LED A DOUBLE LIFE

Chicago Choir Girl is Professional Shop Lifter.

Caught Stealing in Store and Sentenced to Jail But Refuses to Pay Fine in Order that She May Study Sociology—Fine Paid by Friend.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—While friends and detectives have searched for Miss Marie Louise Hill, member of the choir of the Moody church, student of Sociology and commanding the respect of those who knew her intimately, she has been a prisoner at the Bridewell, committed to the institute on her plea of guilty as a shoplifter. She was sentenced on October 10, the day following her disappearance, under the name of Annie Harold.

Her dual existence and the mystery of her departure from her boarding place, ended when the matron at the Bridewell confronted her with her picture in a newspaper and she admitted her identity. She had concealed it she said, because she wished to return to her friends with character unimpaired.

The police were notified and Miss Hill, concealment no longer possible, requested that Dr. W. S. Jacoby, assistant pastor of the Moody Church, and Mrs. H. E. Brown, from whose house she disappeared, be summoned. Mrs. Brown had reached the institution and obtained Miss Hill's release by paying the part of her fine not worked out when Dr. Jacoby and a detective arrived.

When Miss Hill left her boarding place the day of her disappearance, she said, she went to a stock brokers with whom she had dealings relative to gas stock, which she had purchased. Then she went to a publishing house, for which she intended to canvass. Having drawn $100 from a bank, she spend several hours shopping. She was seen by a house detective in a department store having a $15 silk waist on her person. When arrested she gave the assumed name and said that her occupation was that of a writer. Next day she pleaded guilty in the police court and was fined $20 and costs.

"I had spent $40 shopping and had plenty left to pay my fine," she told the police, "but would not do so because I wanted to go to the Bridewell to study the prisoners. I have been interested in Sociology and thought it an opportunity to extend my studies."

NO AID FOR WHALERS.

Captain Jarvis Says Impossible to Give Them Help.

Seattle Wash., Nov. 3.—Captain D. H. Jarvis, who commanded the relief expedition sent out by the United States government in 1897 to aid the stricken whalers, stated today that if the whaling fleet were far to the eastward of Point Barrow, it would be almost impossible for a relief expedition to afford them any material aid as the difficulties of arctic travel in the winter were such that it would be almost impossible to take sufficient food to aid so many men. Captain Jarvis states however, that if the men can reach Point Barrow, there is hope that with the aid of the natives, they may be able to survive the winter. Captain Jarvis is still hopeful, however, that the fleet will escape before the severe freeze-up of the winter.
